- How to determine if social media will work for you
- How to understand the social media sites
- How to use social media
- How you could benefit from social media

Tom Malesic is President and Owner of EZSolution.

In 1997 Tom started EZSolution as a Web design company. He had this crazy vision of what a company should be: that clients should come first and that work should be fun. Thirteen years later EZSolution has grown to a company of 18 people, still dedicated to that original vision.

In 2005, Tom bought a local computer technology company allowing EZSolution to provide a complete range of technical services as well. These services include a managed service program for networks, a business continuity program for data security and network consulting and installation services.

In 2009, Tom published his first book, What Your Web Developer Never Tells You. In 2010 he was named “Marketing Genius,” by Robin Robins of Technology Marketing Toolkit.

This seminar is part of the “Economic Survival Guide” series.
